Letter from Bruce Koffsky dated March 12, 2021

Re: Nachman Helbrans Inmate No. 254427

Dear Wardens Vollmer and Delgrosso-

This office represents Nachman Helbrans, Inmate No. 254427, who is presently detained at the Westchester County Correctional Center. Mr. Helbrans has a federal criminal matter which is pending in the White Plains federal court and his matter is scheduled for trial sometime after the summer. As Mr. Helbrans has decided to act as his own lawyer in that matter, this office requested that the court (U.S.D.J. Nelson Roman) issue an order allowing Mr. Helbrans to have access to a laptop computer and all necessary peripherals so that Mr. Helbrans can review his discovery, conduct appropriate research and review and draft his legal pleadings. On March 5, 2021, Judge Roman issued an order allowing me to purchase a laptop and provide it to Mr. Helbrans – subject of course to the approval of your facility and subject to any and all rules and regulations that would apply in this situation. I have attached a copy of the Judge's order to this letter for your review.

Once you have had an opportunity to review the Court's order, please contact me so that we can discuss how we should proceed in selecting the appropriate laptop and getting it to Mr. Helbrans. I look forward to your anticipated cooperation.

Mr. Koffsky,

Sorry for the late response, there has been an ongoing discussion as to the specs of the PC in question since this is the first time this is being allowed at the Westchester DOC. As of right now the PC must have no WiFi card installed and no Bluetooth capabilities. The Bios must be locked and password protected by the ASUA's Office and all input ports such as USB, HDMI etc.... must be disabled. There may be other restrictions upon physical inspection here at WCDOC.

Respectfully,

*Captain Christopher S. Smith
Technical Services Unit*

Warden Delgrosso-

I am counsel to Mr. Nachman Helbrans, Inmate No. 254427, who is currently an inmate at the Westchester Correctional Facility and I write in follow up to my letter to you dated March 12, 2021 regarding United States District Judge Nelson Roman's Order authorizing your facility to permit Mr. Helbrans to have access to a laptop so that he can act as his own lawyer in his current criminal matter. I have attached a copy of my prior letter and Judge Roman's Order for your review. Please let me know what I can do to assist you in having Judge Roman's Order carried out. I will happily assist in purchasing a computer and all necessary peripherals that both satisfies the requirements of your institution, does not to jeopardize the safety and security of both inmates and staff but at the same time, permits Mr. Helbrans to review his discovery, conduct appropriate research and draft his legal proceedings.

I am copying counsel for the government on this email so that they might also be of assistance in getting Mr. Helbrans a laptop that does not run afoul of the institution's rules and regulations.

I look forward to your reply.

Regards.

Warden Delgrosso-

I am not making any demands, I never have and I never will. I am simply trying to get a laptop into the hands of my client, Nachman Helbrans. If the facility doesn't allow internet access, then the facility doesn't allow internet access and Mr. Helbrans will have to work around that such as requesting that I do his online research for him. Please understand that English is not Mr. Helbrans' first (or even second) language and he believes that he will be better served by being able to type legal documents, use a translating programs to translate Yiddish/Hebrew into English and conducting research. My first goal (one I hope that you share) is to get a laptop into Mr. Helbrans' hands that does the above without violating your rules and regulations.

Please let me know your thoughts on how we can make that happen.

I have been in contact with attorney Susan Wolfe regarding this matter. We left off last week with her insisting the defendants needed internet and email access which I told her was a non starter at our facility and referred her back to the AUSA and US Marshall Service. I have since not heard back but our policy of not allowing inmates any access to the internet stands. If these conditions are in fact required the Marshalls will have to move the defendants to another facility.

A laptop will not be an issue. That can be sent to the AUSA's office who then can vet it send it to us as is regular practice for Federal Discovery. . The only conditions other than no internet access is no thumb drives. We allow either remote hard drives or discs. In this case I would assume the information would be directly downloaded into the laptop itself anyway. I am copying my IT Captain (Smith) onto this email he will reply with any other potential considerations on our end.

Captain Smith-

I am following up on Warden Delgrosso's email of yesterday. I would like to move forward and purchase a laptop for use by Mr. Nachman Helbrans, Inmate No. 254427. The laptop would need to be loaded with word processing software, a Yiddish to English translation program and the ability to attach to a hard drive or peripheral so that Mr. Helbrans can review discovery and conduct research from drives that are loaded outside the facility. And of course, he will need to be able to print.

Can you let me know what, if any, requirements that you and the facility have so that I can put in an order as soon a practical. I will probably order the laptop directly from Dell and have it shipped to the government so that they can be the ones who forward it to you have their IT Department gives it a "once-over."

Regards.

Captain Smith-

It's been a week since my last email to you. Would you kindly get back to me about my providing a laptop to inmate Nachman Helbrans. I would like to know if there are any particular specs that I need to be mindful of when I put in the order. My intent is to order a laptop from Dell and have it shipped directly to the Assistant United States Attorney who is in charge of the inmate's prosecution so that laptop can be loaded with software and discovery and then provided by the government directly to your institution. The sooner I get any required information from you, the sooner I can begin the process.

Thank you for your anticipated cooperation.

Hi Warden Delgrosso,
I know that Bruce Koffsy has already reached out to you and that you are actually going through this process in another case, so, luckily, we don't have to start from scratch.
The first three issues, information about which would help us move things forward, are: 1) are there any specifications for a laptop that the ones we purchase MUST have, from your perspective, or CANNOT have? 2) will the defendants be able to have email, either on the laptop or a tablet? 3) what arrangements will have to be made for internet access?
Please let me know,
Thanks,
Susan

I can say absolutely not on the email. Nor will they be allowed internet access. The devices will have to be preloaded. I received a letter from Attorney Joe Vita on this matter as well. I am going to loop in my IT Captain(Smith) on this thread who will reply with specifics on the devices. They will also require an inspection by him upon arrival before going into service.

Dear Warden Delgrosso,

I respect your answer regarding providing the defendants (mine is Mordechai Malka) internet and email access. My question is whether there is any set of accommodations that can be made, presumably with the Marshal's Service participation, that could make such access possible. Since the defendant's are pro se, their need for a way to communicate and investigate is heightened and atypical. Without email, they must rely on the mail to send papers, often time-sensitive, to counsel for filing in court. I've attached a recent case where a pro se federal defendant housed in a County Jail in Tennessee was provided with internet access and email. If the problem is a matter of security, I am sure there are measures that can be taken to satisfy your concerns. If it is a matter of infrastructure, we would like the opportunity make a proposal to overcome whatever the issues are.

My client has asked me to contact you before contacting the Marshal's or the court because he feels certain the Westchester County has the interests of its inmates at heart and that you will work with us if you can.

Please let me know if further discussion on this topic might be fruitful.

Thank you

Unfortunately we must remain at a hard no on any form of internet access. The Marshalls may have to consider moving these defendants to another facility if these accommodations are deemed mandatory.

Dear Warden DelGrosso and Captain Smith,

We are ready to order laptops for our clients. I want to make sure – although I can't think of anything – that there is no type or feature of a laptop that would not be allowed by the jail. So please let me know as soon as you can. Once we have laptops, we will give you a list of the programs that will be loaded onto them and the equipment that will be needed to use them.

Thank you,
Susan Wolfe

Dear Warden Delgrosso and Captain Smith,

I understand that you do not have any particular requirements regarding laptops, except no thumbdrives. Do you have any problem with a wireless printer/scanner/copier combo, or do you require a hardwire connection?

I also understand that the laptops will have to come from the United States Attorneys Office. There are somewhat voluminous defense investigation materials that we need to provide to the defendants, but cannot load them onto a laptop that will be provided to the government. As an alternative, can we send the defendants a disc or a hard drive with these materials?

Thanks,
Susan Wolfe

In response to your request for a printer. No printers will be allowed other than what is commonly available to all detainee's. we will not be accepting any discs or hard drives. All material must be loaded on the PC.

Thanks for your quick response. I am not very sophisticated computer-user, so maybe this is a silly question, but will there be a way to connect the laptops to the inmates' printer in order to print from the laptops (without using a flashrive)?

Thanks

There is no reason for printing anything off the laptop. The printers for detainees are for printing case law and other legal reference material.

Right, that's for inmates who are represented by attorneys. These defendants are representing themselves. The lawyers are "standby counsel," available to provide advice and do things they can't do (eg email you). They will draft their own motions and other documents and send them by mail to the court and to the lawyers to file electronically. Without email or a printer, there is no way to get motions and letters out of the laptop and to the court.

That's the dilemma.

Please let me know if there are any other options.

Thanks
